Taylor Paxton

TAYLOR

has worked for the Marion County Sheriff's Office for five years. She holds a Bachelor's Degree in Integrative Social Sciences from the University of South Florida. She is certified as a serologist through both the Marion County Sheriff's Office and GFJC (previously NFSTC), and is a certified Forensic Crime Scene Technician through the International Association for Identification. Additionally, she has completed over 100 hours of specialized instruction in DNA, serology, evidence collection, and crime scene processing, all approved by the MCSO Forensic Unit Director.

As a forensic DNA technician, Paxton is responsible for processing items of evidence and screening them for serological value using both visual and chemical methods. By preprocessing evidence, her team can provide results that would typically take the Florida Department of Law Enforcement several months to complete. MCSO Forensic DNA Technicians are required to complete and pass annual proficiency tests, as well as participate in ongoing serology and crime scene training throughout their careers.

The MCSO DNA Screening lab features a rapid DNA system, which can generate a complete genetic profile in just 90 minutes. This technology allows the team to compare crime scene samples to victims and suspects, leading to faster case resolution. Rapid DNA has been invaluable in both her own cases and when assisting other agencies, providing probable cause, exonerating suspects, and ultimately contributing to quicker case closures.

ROBERT YOUNG

began his law enforcement career in 1995 as a Corrections Deputy with the Collier County Sheriff's Office before joining the Naples Police Department in 1998. Over the years, he has built a distinguished career rooted in investigative excellence, leadership development, and victim advocacy.

In 2005, Young was assigned to the Vice, Intelligence, and Narcotics Division, and later transitioned to the Criminal Investigations Division, where he investigated property crimes before focusing on persons crimes. His collaborative work with the Office of the State Attorney, Department of Children and Families, Children's Advocacy Center, and the Shelter for Abused Women and Children earned him recognition as Detective of the Year in 2012. His dedication to victims of domestic violence and his ability to navigate complex investigations reflect his deep commitment to justice and community support.

Promoted to Sergeant in 2014, Young led the night shift patrol division and later returned to Criminal Investigations in a supervisory role. In 2015, he was appointed Lieutenant and served as Night Shift Watch Commander. Since 2018, he has overseen the Criminal Investigations Division, which includes the General Crimes Unit, Special Investigations Unit, Crime Scene, and Property and Evidence. His leadership has been recognized with honors such as the Life Saving Medal, Command Recognition, and Officer of the Quarter, underscoring his operational impact and dedication to service.

Lieutenant Young holds an associate's degree from Central Arizona College, a bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee—where he played collegiate baseball—and a master's degree from Barry University. He is a graduate of the Southern Police Institute's 90th Command Officer Development Course, and actively contributes to professional standards as a CFA Assessor/Team Leader and member of the CFA training committee.

His commitment to the profession extends beyond his agency. From 2009 to 2015, he served as President of the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 38, and remains actively involved with the Fraternal Order of Police, the University of Tennessee Alumni Association, the Southern Police Institute Alumni Association, and the Florida Police Accreditation Coalition—organizations that reflect his values of leadership, mentorship, and continuous improvement.
